Tip #4: Provide free as a bird access to additional help options: You don't want to lose sales (or visits, or whatever your primary goal for your visitors maybe be) simply because you didn't give someone the chance to ask a question. Just as with your call to action, make it clear to visitors that regardless of where they're on your site they will easily locate help via phone, e-mail, live chat, call back, user forum, or knowledge database. Hint: present the many options in a prioritized manner depending on anticipated user needs.
